Around 50% Groppello with Marzemino, Barbera and Sangiovese

The name Giomè is linked to a word used in Ancient Rome, "Giomelle," which signifies "the union of two things." Here, Giomè represents the union of two elements: the indigenous grape variety of the hinterland of Lake Garda, Groppello, with a blend made up of Marzemino, Barbera and Sangiovese, varieties that have thrived in this zone for a long time.

Giomè has intense aromas of dark berries, red cherry, violet flowers and spice accompanying the bright acidity and lively tannins. The ripeness of fruit shows the warm Italian sun with the freshness of the nearby Dolomites. Medium in body and utterly delicious, Giomè is a natural pairing for barbecued meats like grilled steak with tomatillos.
